STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The significance of this monument is two fold. The monument marks the contribution of Vermont troops under General Lew Wallace in his efforts to slow the approach of General Jubal Early toward Washington in the Battle of the Monocacy on July 9, 1864. The Vermont monument is also a symbol of the national trend between 1900 and 1920 to become increasingly aware of one's American heritage by erecting monuments and creating local historical societies.
